11 - What do you consider to be the strengths of this course?

Response Rate 9/27 (33.33%)

- The subject matter was very informative. It made me relate to my current employer in a new way.
- engaging with other students
- The strengths of this course are a well rounded course in general.
- Prior work in non-profit business.
- Well organized and thorough
- Very interesting modules
- This course is very flexible and easy to keep up with.
- The strengths of this course was the PowerPoints they were very useful, the calendar was very useful in this course and every other course, with helping me keep up with assignments due dates.
- The videos were very helpful!

12 - What constructive suggestions do you have for improving this course?

Response Rate 8/27 (29.63%)

- Group project- I get it- team work is a necessity- but in an online setting , I have never had much luck. The groups for this class needed to be smaller, I think. Only about half have really contributed thus far. A smaller number for an online class, is easier to keep track of either via e-mail or texting.
- Timely responses from the professor would be great.
- Nothing.
- great course
- I would like a online course that follows the Monday to Sunday due dates, with post due by Thursday and responses to post by Sunday. It is confusing with all the different due dates, when you work and have four other classes to keep up with.
- I think this course is perfect the way it is.
- This course was kept on schedule as he had it listed.
- I would suggest making the groups smaller. It is next to impossible to coordinate large group projects. There ends up not being enough work to go around so it appears that some are not helping, and at the same time, others end up doing all the work. I would also suggest requiring all group project communications to be carried out on Blackboard, so it is clear who is participating. The evaluation criteria could be improved and clarified also. On the one hand, we are to treat the discussion board posts as a "large text message conversation," but on the other hand we are to write professionally, so that is a bit confusing when it comes to group discussions and we just need to post a quick update or vote on something that does not require a long response. Even though there is a rubric, some of these expectations were unclear and changed after we had already been graded, and many of us who are actually participating received very poor grades on parts of our group project when others are not participating at all, aren't doing any of the work, or just made a lot of posts asking someone to tell them what to do or duplicated others' work, rather than stepping up and taking the initiative and saying, "I will take responsibility for 'x' part of the assignment." These are common issues on group projects, but I think they are magnified the larger the group.
